ICCA 2022 Congress Destination announcement

2021-12-08

We are pleased to announce that the 61st ICCA Congress will take our members to a city in the heart of Europe that is also a centre of international culture, art and science. Krakow, Poland (6-9 November 2022) is a place to explore centuries of history alongside jewels of modern architecture. Each year the easily accessible city welcomes many important cultural and academic events, as well as business meetings.

Delegates will meet at ICE Krakow Congress Centre, the business and cultural flagship of the city. Conveniently located in the centre, it has hosted many world-class and diverse events such as the 41st session of the UNESCO World Committee and the annual Open Eyes Economy Summit.

Keep an eye on Krakow

Collaboration has been key to Krakow's continued growth and success. For example, the Krakow network brings together nearly 400 people, representing almost 200 entities and consists of 5 educational groups led by group leaders. Krakow Future Lab is the group whose main objective is to bring the meeting industry closer to the new technology industry.

"Krakow clearly demonstrates commitment to two of ICCA's core values: working together and embracing innovation. For this reason, the city was an obvious choice for next year's congress. 2022 ICCA delegates can anticipate a seamless meeting experience that blends a world-class venue with cutting-edge event organisation," said ICCA CEO Senthil Gopinath.
