

A September of exhibitions at EXPO Krakow

2023-10-20

There was an abundance of exciting events this September at the International Exhibition and Convention Center EXPO Krakow, with tens of thousands of participants overall, including entrepreneurs looking for new solutions for their companies, automotive enthusiasts, and visitors who came to learn about new design solutions.

The post-holiday exhibition season kicked off with the 3rd TUNING SHOW EXPO. On the weekend of 9–10 September, EXPO Krakow turned into a huge garage full of real automotive gems. More than 200 finely detailed tuning and motorsport projects were presented. With demonstrations, meetings with athletes, YouTubers and TikTokers, and many additional attractions, the event was an undeniable success due to the turnout – EXPO Krakow was visited by more than 13,000 automotive enthusiasts.

In the latter part of September, EXPO Krakow became a major designer and creative spot in the city for two days. After months of preparation, a new event, the Krakow International Interior & Architecture Fair KIAF, entered the Krakow fair scene. More than 100 companies representing various sectors of the interior and architecture industry were invited, from finishing materials and furnishings to smart homes and services for architects. The two-day training program was packed with distinguished speakers as well as workshops, lectures and panel discussions. At the same time, the 15th International Packaging Innovations Fair was held at EXPO Krakow for the first time. This anniversary event brought with it many changes: modern exhibition space, new thematic zones, a large group of new exhibitors and, above all, new opportunities related to the change of location from Warsaw to Krakow. By moving the event from the country's capital, the organizers wanted to create in Krakow a comfortable, modern space conducive to forging contacts, gaining knowledge and opening up to industry representatives from the Czech Republic, Slovakia, Hungary, or for example Ukraine.

In addition, EXPO Krakow hosted several external events in September. Both private banquets and fairs were held here. Exotic Fest was visited by lovers of insects, lizards, snakes and many other exotic animals and plants. The month ended with the last Housing and Home Fair to be held this year.
